

Unthinkable

There's space inside my mind
Filled with remembering and forgetting
A gun to my empty head
Blows my world in two
The fragments of my memory's shell
Splinter in your anger
Demanding yet denying
Reality is true

*Can I link the unlinkable chain
Think the unthinkable pain
Sink the unsinkable shame
And live?*

I search beyond the bounds
For my prodigal emotions
You spit your truth at me
My defences acquiesce
Dissolving into madness
In diluted resolution
Of my numbness and my denial
And the burn of your caress

Can I link the unlinkable chain...

*Can I live?
Remember... forgetting...
Unthinkable...
Can I live?*

Words by Monique Lisbon
(with thanks to Lucy Ridsdale)
Music by Monique Lisbon and Roger Nicholson
© MonoMusic 2003

This song comes from the CD If The Truth Hurts
(© MonoMusic 2003)

To order this product,
click here