

So Rare A Person

The sun, once bright
Now refusing to smile
The clouds grumble in protest
Against the death
The death of a man
Whose only crime is innocence

*So rare a person will die
To save a friend
Yet this man hangs
Friendless, to save me*

And there I stand
Unable to speak
The crowd screaming for his blood
And there he hangs
No breath of life
This man of innocence

*I felt the death in his eyes
They gazed in mine
And finally
I knew I could see*

*So rare a person will die
To save a friend
Yet this man hangs
Friendless, to save me*

Words and Music
by Monique Lisbon and Rod Baker
© Optasia Productions 1998

This song comes from the CD and songbook
Refuge
(© MonoMusic 1999)

To order this product,
click here